

R. Anthony (Tony) Hodge

President, International Council on Mining and Metals, London, UK
Professor of Mining and Sustainability, Queen's University Kingston

On October 1 2008, R. Anthony Hodge assumed duties as President and CEO of the International Council of Mining and Metals in London, UK. This follows from his appointment a year earlier as Kinross Professor of Mining and Sustainability, Queen's University at Kingston.

For some 30 years prior to ICMM Dr. Hodge was in private practice as a consulting engineer. His projects ranged across a rich variety of assignments related to mining, aboriginal relations, nuclear waste management, water resources, energy policy, and the distribution of benefits from resource developments.

Dr. Hodge received his B.A.Sc. (1972) and M.A.Sc. (1976) degrees from the University of British Columbia (Geological Engineering). He was awarded his Ph.D. (interdisciplinary) in 1995 from McGill University as a result of work that focused on reporting on progress toward sustainability.

From 1989-1992, Dr. Hodge was President of Friends of the Earth Canada. He served on the National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy (NRTEE) from 1992-1996. Through 2001 and 2002 he led the North American component of a global multi-interest review of practices mining/mineral industry (MMSD-North America).
